Letter To The Editor

Dear Editor,
The Times-Virginian
Appomattox, Va.

The Fellowship Four and Jackie thank you so much for your help in advertising the gospel sing to benefit Connie Gillaspie Gallier and her family. We have been able to turn over to the fund a little over $500.00 as a result of the singing.

Nov. 14, 1977

To The Editor of the Times-Va.
Appomattox, Va. 24522

Sir,

This past Sunday evening, I was driving from my home in Goochland County to pick up my son at VPI when my car broke down on Route 60, a few miles west of Buckingham Court House. I would probably still be there but for the kindness of a total stranger, Tim Scruggs, of Buckingham County, who went out of his way to help me.

These days you read a lot about people who see their fellow human being in trouble but refuse to help because they don't want to "get involved." It is really heartwarming to know that there are still Good Samaritans in the world after all.

Sincerely,
Marvin K. Heffner

MRS. HUDSON RECEIVES PROMOTION AT FARMERS BANK

Board, she has been a Sunday School teacher for more than thirty years. She is a member of the Board of Directors of the Appomattox County Unit, American Cancer Society and has served as its Treasurer since the founding of the local Chapter in 1962. She also serves as Chairman of the Memorial Fund for the local Chapter, ACS.

We join in with others in congratulating Mrs. Hudson on her promotion and wish for her every success.

APPOMATTOX JAYCEE COUNTRY MUSIC CONTEST PLANNED

everyone.

The amount the Jaycees collect at the country music show determines how many children can be taken on the Christmas Shopping Tour.

A carry-over fund was set up for use when the Jaycees failed to make enough money on the country music contest. The past two years have been poor years and the fund is really depleted. The Jaycees promise to have a good contest, but they need you to make the contest a success. So come to the Appomattox Country Music Contest at ACHS auditorium on December 2nd at 7:30 p.m. and help the Jaycees have a successful Christmas Shopping Tour for the children this year, at the same time you enjoy the talent that will be on hand to participate.

Quick Quiz!

Q. Will deregulation of natural gas result in conservation of existing supplies?

A. Higher natural gas prices will lead to more efficient energy use. Because this fuel has been artificially regulated at prices below its commodity value, excessive use and waste has resulted. As gas is priced at its unregulated value in a free market, consumers would demand less simply because prices would begin to climb. And as natural gas reaches a realistic competitive level with other fuels, industrial customers will likely use it only when its special qualities cannot be found in substitute fuels. How will greater energy efficiency be achieved? One step is to deregulate natural gas prices.

Eating Well

Since November is Diabetes Month, I should like to tell you about a new book that is on the market that is devoted specifically to the importance of exercise for diabetics. The Diabetics Sports And Exercise Book: How to Play Your Way to Better Health answers many of the questions that diabetics ask when they are told to exercise. The book discusses how much exercise a person should get, the kind of exercise, and the problem of insulin reactions. The authors, June Biermann and Barbara Toohey, interviewed more than 150 diabetics, some of whom were professional athletes, in order to find out how they personally benefit from sports and exercise programs. The book is for diabetics of all ages and explains how exercise can help to control diabetes. It gives tips on how to avoid, recognize, and treat insulin reactions; whether to eat more or take less insulin during physical activity; precautions to take before exercising; and the advantages and disadvantages of various sports.

The book supports the theory that exercise makes diabetes control easier. Following its suggestions allows the diabetic to eat more normally, and relieves stress. If you're diabetic the book may be just the push you need in order to begin your exercise program.

Some of you may want to try the following recipe for Orange Chiffon which appeared in the Summer edition of Diabetes in the News:

1 tablespoon unflavored gelatin
½ cup cold water
½ cup boiling hot water
1 egg yolk, beaten until lemon-colored
1 tablespoon grated orange rind
two thirds cup orange juice
Sugar substitute to equal 8 teaspoons sugar (liquid)
1 teaspoon lemon juice
1 egg white
One-fourth cup evaporated milk
Soften gelatin in cold water. Stir into hot milk until dissolved. Slowly heat mixture into beaten yolk. Add orange rind and place over boiling water in a double boiler. Cook, stirring constantly, until the mixture becomes thick enough to coat a spoon. Remove from heat. Combine orange, lemon juice and sugar substitute; add to hot mixture. Chill until mixture will mound very slightly when spooned. Beat egg white stiff, but not dry. Whip evaporated milk. Add beaten egg white and whipped milk to mixture. Pour into 4 dessert dishes and chill until firm.

For those of you who are diabetic you can either use the old Exchange List (one-half milk exchange) or the new one (one-half milk exchange or one fat exchange). For those of you who are interested only in calories, you can count each serving as containing about 85 calories.

The Pastor Speaks

THE PASTOR SPEAKS

When Philip Found Nathaniel he said unto him, "We have found Him, of whom Moses in the law, and the phophets did write, Jesus of Nazareth." John 1:45

No sooner does one come to Christ, than there is born in his heart a desire to make known what a precious friend he has found in Jesus. The saving and sanctifying truth cannot be shut up in his heart. If we are clothed with the righteousness of Christ, and are filled with the joy of His indwelling Spirit, we shall not be able to hold our peace. If we have tasted and seen that the Lord is good, then we shall have something to tell. Like Philip when he found the Savior, we shall invite others into His presence. We shall seek to present to them the attractions of Christ, and the realities of the world to come. There will be an intensity to follow in the path that Jesus trod. There will be an earnest longing that those around us may behold "the Lamb of God, which taketh away the sin of the world."

And the effort to bless others will react in blessing upon ourselves. God has granted us the privilege of becoming partakers of the divine nature, and, in turn, of diffusing blessings to our fellow men. This is the highest honor, the greatest joy, that it is possible for God to bestow upon men. Those who thus become participants in labors of love are brought nearest to their Creator.

International Uniform Lesson Series

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

GOD AND/OR CAESAR?

Lesson for November 20, 1977

Background Scripture:
Luke 20:19-26;
Acts 5:27-32
Romans 13:1-10
Devotional Reading:
Romans 12:1-8

"Then render to Caesar the things that are Caesar's, and to God the things that are God's."

What kind of answer was that? Was Jesus giving his followers a rule-of-thumb that could be used whenever faith and state seemed in conflict?

Rev. Althouse

Well, yes ..... and no.

It was the beginning of an answer, but not the whole of it. To those Jews who believed that any co-operation with the Roman authorities was contrary to their allegiance to God, Jesus was indicating significant disagreement. His answer, "Render to Caesar the things that are Caesar's...," says plainly that God's children do have responsibilities to the state. Since it was the question of paying taxes that precipitated this question, Jesus is obviously saying that taxation was one of them.

Not either/or

To those, on the other hand, who feel that the believer must in every situation and choice be obedient to the state, Jesus was also saying that there are areas of life in which man owes his highest obedience to God alone. Thus, Jesus was not agreeing with either extreme. He did not believe that a person had to choose to obey only the state, or only God.

The problem for us is that, apart from the obvious reference to paying taxes, Jesus' response does not spell out just what belongs to God and what belongs to Caesar. So how can we know Jesus' view on these knotty conflicts between faith and state?

The answer, I believe, is that we must not look for this one utterance—on "Caesar" and "God"—to provide us with all the answers. All Jesus is saying in it is that it does not have to be God or Caesar. As he responds it is evident that it is God and Caesar. Beyond that, we must look elsewhere.

What comes first?

If we look at the rest of his life and teachings we begin to see more of the answer. For one thing, it is evident from his whole life that, although he was generally a law-abiding citizen, his greatest allegiance was always to God. He followed the commands of Caesar so long as they were not in conflict with the commands he received from God. Therefore, there were times when he was critical of state officials (Luke 13:32). There were times when he was not cooperative with public officials and was even sharp in some of his replies (Luke 22,23). He obviously could have saved himself before Pilate, but he refused to go back on his God-given mission. So, Jesus, was executed by the state as a common criminal, a gross miscarriage of justice.

Thus, from his own life we find the full answer he gave: God and state, but when these two are in conflict, then God!

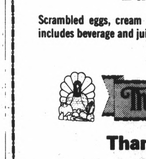
Bible Facts



Although many people sometimes feel guilty, few express their feelings as well as Psalm 32: "When I kept silence, my bones waxed old through my roaring all the day long."

How are we to find relief from the burden of guilt? Psalm 32 suggests this answer: "I said, I will confess my transgressions unto the Lord, and Thou forgavest the iniquity of my sin." You can receive a booklet that may answer some of the questions you might have about a certain kind of guilt. To receive a copy of "Abortion . . .
